

Marra B. Gad
Writer, Producer and Award-Winning Author
Biography

As president of Egad! Productions, Marra B. Gad oversees the development and production of scripted television series and films. A grateful biracial and Jewish child of adoption, Marra speaks internationally to issues of racism, bias, identity and about her own transracial adoption in 1970, through the lens of her debut memoir, THE COLOR OF LOVE: A Story of a Mixed-Race Jewish Girl, winner of the 2020 Midwest Book Award for Autobiography/Memoir

Marra proudly holds a BA from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and an MA in Jewish History from Baltimore Hebrew Institute at Towson University. Having written her first television pilot, Marra is currently working on her next book from her home in Los Angeles.